Performances by theatre students from Montessori High School at University Circle

MHS students will perform selections from Shockheaded Peter, a collection of delightfully silly and, perhaps at times spooky, cautionary tales from the German children's book of the same name.

Stories will be told concurrently in two locations: The Annex located behind the MHS Ferris House and the Art Studio in the basement of the Ferris House. Each group of stories stands alone and can be viewed independent of the other.

Each production will last approximately 15 minutes, the audience should expect an interactive experience!
